

IT WAS DONE BY A NARROW MARGIN

Vote For Specific Declaration of 16 to 1 was 26 to 24—Hawaii Voted Yes, and Saved It—Utah Voted No.

Kansas City, Mo., July 5.—The resolution committee of the Democratic national convention has decided for an explicit declaration for free silver coinage at 16 to 1. The vote stood 26 to 24, and was taken at 3:30 o'clock.

UTAH SAYS NO.
The vote stood as follows on a resolution to substitute a 16 to 1 declaration for a principle re-affirmation of the Chicago platform:

Ayes: Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Washington, Wyoming, Arizona, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, New Mexico, Hawaii—26.

Noes: California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Alaska—24.

THE FINANCIAL PLANK.
The plank agreed upon is as follows: "We reiterate the demand of the platform of 1896, for an American financial system made by the American people, for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

PLATFORM SUB-COMMITTEE.
A sub-committee consisting of Jones, Blackburn, Metcalf, Gerrard, Van Hook, Stone, Williams, McGietrick and Tilman was appointed to draft a platform.

The advocates of reflation say they will not decide as to whether there shall be a minority report until tomorrow.

Hauer of Montana did not vote and the District of Columbia was absent.

COMMITTEES IN A CONTEST.
The convention at 4:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon, having no business to transact because of the failure of the committee to report, took a recess until 5:30 p.m.

At the night session the structure was headed by thousands and the moving picture took on new glories of color and animation under the glare of countless electric lights. For the first time the proceedings were formal and profitable, but when at the close of the speech of permanent Chairman Richardson, he paid a glowing tribute to William J. Bryan, pandemonium broke loose and the historic scene of Bryan's domination at Chicago was repeated, even exceeded, in a frenzied demonstration, lasting half an hour. The speakers were wrenched from their seats and borne aloft, a battle of supremacy was waged among the standard-bearers, urged on by the deafening applause of the entire shouting, gesticulating multitude.

Outside of the formal proceedings of the day, interest was centered in the action of the platform committee. As that a determined struggle was in progress, involving not only the question of incorporating a specific 16 to 1 declaration in the party declaration, but to some extent involving the desires of the prospective nominee as to the terms of the platform.

The resolution committee finally decided as stated.

WEAK AT 16 TO 1.
The first token of approval given to the platform was that which greeted the first mention of 16 to 1. The applause, however, was rather feeble and scattered. Much more energetic was the shout that followed the declaration that the coming campaign was to be a trial of the Republic against the empire.

The hall had become very quiet by this time and the address by Chairman Richardson was given a much better hearing than any that had preceded.

His arraignment of the failure of the Republican party to establish bimetalism, and the creation instead of a single gold standard, was received with manifestations of hearty approval.

BRYAN'S NAME CAUSES FRENZY.
The conclusion of Chairman Richardson's speech was the signal for terrific applause and cheers. His mention of the name of W. J. Bryan brought the convention to its feet in a frenzy of excitement. Delegates sprang upon their chairs, waving hats, handkerchiefs and umbrellas in the wildest fashion. By a common impulse the standards bearing the names of the States were torn up and thrust into the air. Then down the aisles toward the speaker's desk came groups of delegates, surrounding one man, who held the name of the State aloft.

Texas and New York became engaged in a rivalry as to which should hold the name of the State highest in the air. The Lone Star State had the advantage at the outset, for the New York standard had been grasped by one of the small men of the delegation.

WILD WITH EXCITEMENT.
This was quickly remedied when the Tammany men saw themselves in second place. The pole bearing the name of the State was grabbed from the small New Yorker, he was bumped down into his chair, and Mr. Keller, endorsed by New York for Vice President, seized it.

Mr. Keller put Texas in second place in a flash, and try as desperately as he might, the Texas could not place the name of his State within one foot of that of New York, until with a half a shout, the Texans grasped their man.

THE CONVENTION BY THIS TIME WAS IN A STATE OF FRANTIC EXCITEMENT. The men from Hawaii, carrying their large banner, came down the aisle, followed by a shouting mob which bore all before it. The band struck up "The Stars and Stripes" and to these inspiring strains the men commenced to march around the floor, yelling like mad-men, waving everything that could be lifted into the air. Hats, handkerchiefs, umbrellas, State emblems, banners and the national colors were under in a conglomerate wave, and beneath it marched a crowd of men fairly beside themselves with excitement. With flushed faces, down which the perspiration rolled in streams, many without coats and vests, they went round and screaming at the top of their voices.

VOICES AS OF BRASS.
Those delegates who did not join in the march left most effective aid in increasing the uproar. They could contribute nothing but their voices and their hats and handkerchiefs, but they used the first as though they were made of brass, and originally designed for one night's wear only, and the latter two in a manner fully as energetic. The band did its share, and the tooters of horns and the beaters of sheepskins worked away for dear life. Nobody knew what they played—nobody cared. They were doing their full share, and that was all that was necessary.

After the excitement had continued 15 minutes, Chairman Richardson was tempted to bring order out of the chaos that ruled upon the floor. Now and then the patter of his gavel could be heard, and every time he spoke and reached the ears of a delegate he shrieked the louder. Time after time the chairman attempted to restore quiet, but he was utterly overpowered and overwhelmed with each effort.

Precisely twenty minutes after Chairman Richardson had mentioned the name of Bryan, which like the waving of a magic wand had conjured up a scene of such wonderful enthusiasm as has seldom been witnessed in a political convention, he began to rap for order; but the delegates were not yet ready to yield the floor, even to the chairman of the convention. The band in the gallery started a patriotic air, and despite the continuous efforts of Chairman Richardson to restore order, the demonstration continued for nine and a half minutes longer, its total length being 254 minutes.

Order then was sufficiently restored to enable the chairman to recognize delegate J. G. Johnson of Kansas, who here in a manner fully as energetic as the delegates who had preceded him, adjourned until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

At 10:30 the chairman declared the convention adjourned.

President Celebrates the Fourth.
Canton, O., July 4.—Canton's Fourth of July celebration was purely non-partisan. It was the occasion of the dedication of a tablet to the country's representatives in the Spanish-American war and the mounting thereon of Spanish cannon captured at San Juan. But in all the demonstrations President McKinley was the central figure, made so by thousands of people who came here to honor him and to see him. As he approached the reviewing stand for the afternoon parade a voice from the crowd said: "Let us give three cheers for President McKinley." The crowd was given with a vim. The ovation was indescribable, and the President was kept busy shaking hands until the parade arrived and pushed back the crowd.

Judge William R. Day was the orator of the day and delivered a patriotic address.

YELLED LIKE MANIACS.
While this strife was going on between the two States the frenzy had taken hold of the other delegates, as from all parts of the hall men came plunging through the throng, carrying their State emblems. They became densely packed in front of the electric desk, and yelling and cheering like maniacs, they strove to raise the name of their State level with New York. The effort was useless, however, and, held firm by the Tammany men, New York kept its place.

The Georgia men, wrought up by their failure to equal New York, made a rush for the speaker's stand. They went through the crowd with a force that no opposition of the crowd could prevent, and pushing, shoving, clawing and cheering, they hoisted their man raised him on their shoulders and New York was down again—but as before it went down only to rise higher. Richardson was waving a foot than Texas had been able to reach.

At the night session the structure was headed by thousands and the moving picture took on new glories of color and animation under the glare of countless electric lights. For the first time the proceedings were formal and profitable, but when at the close of the speech of permanent Chairman Richardson, he paid a glowing tribute to William J. A POPULAR MISTAKE

Regarding Remedies for Dyspepsia and Indigestion

The national disease of Americans is indigestion or in its chronic form, dyspepsia, and for the very reason that it is so common many people neglect taking proper treatment for what they consider trifling stomach trouble, when as a matter of fact, indigestion lays the foundation for many incurable diseases. No person who is vigorous, healthy, and whose stomach will fall a victim to consumption. Many kidney diseases and heart troubles date their beginning from poor digestion; thin, nervous people are really so because their stomachs are deranged; weary, languid, faded out women owe their condition to imperfect digestion.

When nearly every person you meet is afflicted with weak digestion it is not surprising that nearly every secret patent medicine on the market claims to be a cure for dyspepsia, as well as a score of other troubles, when in fact as Dr. Werther says, there is but one genuine dyspepsia cure which is perfectly safe and reliable, and moreover, this remedy is not a patent medicine, but it is a scientific combination of pure pepsin (free from animal matter), vegetable essences, fruit salts and bismuth. It is sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No extravagant claims are made for them, but for indigestion or any stomach trouble, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are far ahead of any remedy yet discovered. They act on the food eaten, no dieting is necessary, simply eat all the wholesome food you wish, by the way, think he's right. A cure results, because all the stomach needs is a rest, which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give by doing the work of digestion.

upon the platform and lifted him upon a chair.

The effort was successful, and New York was eclipsed once more. Keller is a small man to hold aloft in a struggling, pushing mob, and the Tammany crowd was nearly ready to drop with exhaustion, but a glance at the Georgia banner brought new strength into their weary arms and new determination into their hearts, and Mr. Keller went up still higher, and New York was on top once more.

A SHOUTING MOB.
The convention by this time was in a state of frantic excitement. The men from Hawaii, carrying their large banner, came down the aisle, followed by a shouting mob which bore all before it. SALT LAKE WIN.

Cricketers Again Defeat the Crack Players of Ogden.

The Salt Lake Cricket club again defeated the Ogden club in a game played yesterday at Ogden, by a score of 63 to 41. The Ogden team has been strengthened a good deal since the last game by Mr. Moncton, a lengthy young Englishman, who carried off the individual honors of the day at the bat and as a bowler. In the first innings he led both teams in battery, making 30 runs. He pitched by the name of "Lefty," and with 19 runs. The teams had luncheon as an intermission between the two innings. Capt. Haddenham of the Ogden team has been invited to meet the Salt Lake team in this city on July 24.

The following is yesterday's score card:

OGDEN TAKES TWO.

Poor Old Short Lines Defeated by Gimlittins.

(SPECIAL TO THE "NEWS.")
Ogden, July 4, 1900.

The new ball park was in readiness yesterday for the crossing of bats between the Oregon Short Lines and the Ogden. The grand stand is very nicely and comfortably arranged, it has a seating capacity of 620, and the bleachers have a seating capacity of 500. The ground was quite soft as yet making the playing somewhat slow. There were two games played yesterday between the Oregon Short Lines and the Ogden. The first game resulted in a victory for the Ogden team by a score of 12 to 6 in the morning game and 12 to 7 in the afternoon.

The afternoon game was very largely attended there being nearly 2,000 people present. Up to the sixth innings it looked as though the Oregon Short Lines were going to win, but their pitcher got his wrist hurt and the new man did not seem to be able to get a good twirl on the sphere, the result was a large score for the Ogden.

Following is the complete score of the two games:

As the above table shows, the Rio Grande baseball team still tags on lovingly behind Father Gimlitt's crowd.

The reason for this team's not occupying third place instead of second, is simple. It was not defeated by the Pocatellos yesterday afternoon.

Hickey's ladies did a few wonderful things in the afternoon's game and surprised everybody. They took on a hitting streak that was quite awful. Young Harmon, the Pocatellos' whirlwind, who, by the way, thinks he's the entire thing, was batted out of the box in the third inning with six hits and three runs against him. Eubanks took his place but failed to do much, and there were nine hits against him, getting in four out of five times up.

Rio pitched an excellent game, allowing nine hits. He struck out Kleiber. Here is the score:
